

Lindsey Swart

instagram facebook

Lindsey started her career 13 years ago when she moved over to the UK, without a degree but a passion for make-up she was employed by MAC, her dream for colour and beauty began! Within a few months she was asked to work backstage on London Fashion Week, within 2 years she opened the first Mac counter in South Africa. Realizing her creativity and attention to detail she became part of the training and creative team heading up big productions and creating looks for various shows. After 7 years she decided she needed to get out into the industry, she is very passionate about attention to detail and with that quality she has built a great client base, and has become one of the top sort after Make up artists

